

THE MOURNER'S BILL OF RIGHTS ALAN D. WOLFELT, PH.D.

Though you should reach out to others as you do the work of mourning, you should not feel obligated to accept the unhelpful responses you may receive from some people. You are the one who is grieving, and as such, you have certain "rights" no one should try to take away from you.

REMEMBERING YOU

Your time on earth seemed all too brief because I wanted you in my life forever.

And although I really miss you, in my heart I know that you are at peace.

Still, countless times throughout the day I find myself remembering you.

Although I cannot see or hear you, I know that you are with me.

I'll feel you in the warmth of the summer sun.

I'll see you in the brilliance of autumn leaves.

You'll be beside me in the peacefulness of a gentle snowfall and rejoice with me at the emergence of the first flowers of spring.

I'm thankful for the times we shared and the priceless memories too; For those memories are a comfort now when I lovingly remember You.

The following list is intended both to empower you to heal and to decide how others can and cannot help. This is not to discourage you from reaching out to others for help, but rather to assist you in distinguishing useful responses from hurtful ones.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO EXPERIENCE YOUR OWN UNIQUE GRIEF.

No one else will grieve in exactly the same way you do. So, when you turn to others for help, don't allow them to tell what you should or should not be feeling.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO TALK ABOUT YOUR GRIEF.

Talking about your grief will help you heal. Seek out others who will allow you to talk as much as you want, as often as you want, about your grief. If at times you don't feel like talking, you also have the right to be silent.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO FEEL A MULTITUDE OF EMOTIONS.

Confusion, disorientation, fear, guilt and relief are just a few of the emotions you might feel as part of your grief journey. Others may try to tell you that feeling angry, for example, is wrong. Don't take these judgmental responses to heart. Instead, find listeners who will accept your feelings without condition.

THE MOURNER'S BILL OF RIGHTS [CONTINUED]

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO BE TOLERANT OF YOUR PHYSICAL AND EMOTIONAL LIMITS.

Your feelings of loss and sadness will probably leave you feeling fatigued. Respect what your body and mind are telling you. Get daily rest. Eat balanced meals. And don't allow others to push you into doing things you don't feel ready to do.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO MOVE TOWARD YOUR GRIEF AND HEAL.

Reconciling your grief will not happen quickly. Remember, grief is a process, not an event. Be patient and tolerant with yourself and avoid people who are impatient and intolerant with you. Neither you nor those around you must forget that the death of someone loved changes your life forever.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO EXPERIENCE "GRIEFBURSTS."

Sometimes, out of nowhere, a powerful surge of grief may overcome you. This can be frightening, but is normal and natural. Find someone who understands and will let you talk it out.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO MAKE USE OF RITUAL.

The funeral ritual does more than acknowledge the death of someone loved. It helps provide you with the support of caring people. More importantly, the funeral is a way for you to mourn. If others tell you the funeral or other healing rituals such as these are silly or unnecessary, don't listen.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO EMBRACE YOUR SPIRITUALITY.

If faith is a part of your life, express it in ways that seem appropriate to you. Allow yourself to be around people who understand and support your religious beliefs. If you feel angry at God, find someone to talk with who won't be critical of your feelings of hurt and abandonment.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO SEARCH FOR MEANING.

You may find yourself asking, "Why did he or she die? Why this way? Why now?" Some of your questions may have answers, but some may not. And watch out for the clichéd responses some people may give you. Comments like, "It was God's will" or "Think of what you have to be thankful for" are not helpful and you do not have to accept them.

YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO TREASURE YOUR MEMORIES.

Memories are one of the best legacies that exist after the death of someone loved. You will always remember. Instead of ignoring your memories, find others with whom you can share them.
